PUBLIC AUCTION.

A SPLENDID INVESTMENT.

THE Undersigned has been favoured with instructions to sell by Public Auction, on FRIDAY,
the 15th February, 1867, at 4 P.M.,
On the Spot
All that Piece or Parcel of GROUND, registered in the Land Office, as INLAND LOT, No. 818. It is bounded on the North by the Pedder's Hill, and measuring thereon 219 feet; on the South side, by the range known as the Bank Buildings, and measuring thereon 202 feet; on the East side by Zetland Street, and measuring 114 feet; and on the West by Wyndham Street, and measuring thereon 181 feet, containing on the whole an area of 29,795 square feet.
In bringing this splendid Property to the notice of the Public the Undersigned begs specially to draw the attention of all parties who are either concerned in landed estates in this Colony or are desirous of making a safe and remunerative, and at the same time a valuable investment, that this fine site is situated in almost the heart of this City. The ground is at present all levelled and ready to be built upon, and with some careful outlay and tasteful choice of suitable Plans a beautiful row of houses could be erected thereon, which would turn out not only an ornament to the place, but, which is by far the more preferred in these days, a source of sure and certain profit and income. The locality being most respectable and healthy, there could not possibly be any chance about any of the Tenements standing on the spot being left unoccupied
The Property recommends itself.
The terms and conditions will be either made known through separate handbills, or on the spot on the day of sale.

HONGKONG, FEBRUARY 11, 1867.

IT is announced in the Gazette of yesterday that Mr. NORMAN R. MASSON has been appointed to act as Police Magistrate from the 11th instant until further notice, vice Mr. F. W. MITCHELL employed on a special mission, and that the Hon. W. H. RENNIE will act as Police Magistrate until further notice in the room of Mr. J. C. WHYTE resigned. It is also announced that Dr. O'BRIEN will act as Colonial Surgeon during Dr. MURRAY'S temporary absence from his duties on sick leave.

IN connexion with that subject we dealt with on Saturday, there is so much to be said that a few words more at any rate are not to be withheld. The solution not only of the diplomatic difficulties which arise from the residence of the Chief English authority in China at Pekin, not only the remedy for the inevitable weakness of British diplomacy while that state of things is allowed to endure, but the solution of a dozen Government problems in Hongkong, might be found in the arrangement which would put the GOVERNOR of this colony in the leading position, or in other words make the leading Englishman in China GOVERNOR of Hongkong. Such a change instead of militating against the various reforms which it is agreed on all hands ought to be introduced, would directly subserve them. We have often argued and we believe with the concurrence of the majority of our readers that the colony has outgrown the form of Government under which it lives, which was in the first instance, naturally and appropriately chosen for a small and remote island, taken into the hands of the English Government for experimental purposes, containing at first no population to speak of at all and supported altogether by the Imperial purse. Because the men who have administered this Government after the circumstances changed, and after the colony attained a magnitude, importance and revenue which imperatively demanded a reformed system of control, have in spite of the faults of judgment which they may have committed, the mistakes or frailties we may think of in connexion with their names, been immeasurably better than the system of which they were a part, that system has been tolerated. Tolerated in a discontented spirit of course, but suffered to continue in existence without such a storm of indignation and confusion as would inevitably have arisen, and as inevitably brought the system to an end if the successive administrators had done a tenth part of the evil which they were in a position to do. There is scarcely any limit to the ruin and destruction which a GOVERNOR of Hongkong if he were malignantly disposed might not bring about, legally and by the mere exercise of the power and authority which is undoubtedly his. Instead of doing mischief voluntarily however, successive Governors have striven to do good, to keep things going easily, to govern the place in a decent and honorable manner on the whole. Some may have given way up to a certain point to one sort of temptation and others to another sort, but the worst have neglected vast regions of evil in which, under the system, they might have disported at will. All this however is no defence of the system, it is a mere explanation of the wonderful fact that twenty-five years after the establishment of the colony, it is in existence still.

The direction in which it needs reform has often been pointed out, and is perfectly well known to every man in the place who takes the smallest interest in public affairs. Without introducing the entirely inappropriate machinery of electioneering, it is urgently desirable that there should be a body in existence, no matter how called into existence, which should represent the community and have a real influence on the local legislation, more especially the local taxation and the local expenditure. It is a monstrous and ridiculous state of things that when the colony contains numerous men of mature experience in business and Anglo-Eastern life, who have lived for ten and twenty years in the town, and have all their interests bound up in its prosperity, they should be powerless to dictate or regulate the expenditure of a cent on local requirements, and what is worse, powerless to say a word which may influence the mode in which their income and their property is to be taxed. That this should be done for them without, or against their will by chance, by a gentleman appointed to the look after the affairs of Hongkong because of his mature experience of Bermuda or a North American province, is an anomaly which only fails to shock people out of all propriety because of its familiarity. It is moreover one of those anomalies which simply go on existing for a length of time because all political institutions, good and bad, are very stable amongst so orderly a people as the English, but is at the same time marked with the sign of ultimate destruction. Some incident more exciting than usual will some day turn attention at home to the framework of Government in this colony and amidst general wonder at the possibility of such a framework ever having been constructed, it will be remodelled. It will be remodelled in all probability in accordance with the obvious propriety of having an efficient and responsible Legislative Council, whether appointed from amongst the community by the GOVERNOR or in some other way, and following this change will arise a sort of departmental responsibility in the Government. The possibility that measures brought forward by the Government will be rejected in the Council, that budgets will be remodelled and estimates cut down or amplified, will be too plainly present to the future GOVERNORS to admit of such direct absorption by them of all the functions of Government as is usual now. They will see that the wise course will be to let the heads of departments themselves frame the measures relating to those departments and bring them forward in the Council. The credit, if credit accrues from them, will inevitably attach to the head of the Government, and the mortification of having them altered or rejected if that fate is encountered, will be reserved for the gentlemen directly their authors. In this way the dignity of the GOVERNOR will be perfectly well preserved while the Council will actually decide the local questions of the day. The GOVERNOR'S dignity indeed would be immeasurably greater were he elevated in this way into the position of a Constitutional Sovereign on a small scale, than it can ever be while he is burdened with the performance of duties which bring him into bad odour on all hands.

With his dignity thus enhanced and the administrative work which now occupies so much of his time, taken off his hands, he would be prepared for the performance of diplomatic functions and would in every way be the obvious man for representing the English Government in China. The Colonial Government would work smoothly enough for him to go away at any time for a few weeks, to visit any of the ports or Pekin; and in this way the great and main object would be attained and the Chinese policy of Great Britain would not be at the mercy of a man narrowed and cramped by long exile from the world of intellectual advancement and progress, prejudiced by association with the most grotesquely prejudiced class and people in the world, and drawn over by the mere form of residing at Pekin, from the side of European merchants whose interests he is appointed to guard and foster, to that of the native officials whose patriotism is limited to the idea of perpetuating traditional follies, and whose highest ambition is to neutralise so far as possible the effects of every achievement which English and French arms have won in the Far East. The Chinese would respect and be influenced by a man occupying the position we have sketched far more than they care for or are swayed by a resident Ambassador at Pekin under the present system. Familiarity breeds more contempt in China than anywhere else, and this always must be so with a half civilised race, respecting men not for their qualifications, but for the position, they fill and the trappings of their rank. The imagination always invests the unseen or rarely seen potentate with vague and awful splendour. When the sight of him becomes commonplace the devotee is desillusionné. The Chinese of the past must have been dimly conscious of this when they surrounded the Emperor with forms which almost forbid his subjects from ever beholding him. This mystery may almost confer power and influence on a man who has none in reality, but when as in the case of a man who should wield the mighty, and, in China at any rate, the absolutely irresistible forces of British arms, should also be veiled, and resident in dominions of his own, even though these from but a little island on the coast, the respect or the fear of him, and in China the two words are synonymous, would be infinite. It is not now as it used to be before there ever had been a British Minister at Pekin. Then it might have been said that the Chinese Government would not allow us to send an emissary to the capital. That delusion at any rate is broken down and the people have perceived that whether the Government allow it or whether they do not allow it the thing is done. When it is known that we have the power to do it if we please, it does not matter a straw whether the right is exercised or not.

The Hongkong and Shanghai Bank.

The following report is to be submitted to the ordinary general meeting of shareholders to be held this day:—

GENTLEMEN,—The Directors have now to submit to you the General Statement of the Corporation's affairs and Balance-sheet for the half-year, ending on 31st December last.

The net profits for that period, including $45,698.86, brought forward from last account, after defraying all outgoings and current expenses deducting interest paid and due, and making provision for bad debts, amount to $347,085.07; of which, after taking out rebate on Bills not yet due, and allowing for the amount written off Preliminary Expenses, the Remuneration of Directors, &c., there remains for appropriation $290,901.44.

From the latter sum the Directors recommend the distribution of a Dividend of $7.50 on the paid-up Shares, and $1.50 on the new Shares, being equivalent to six per cent. for the half-year, or twelve per cent. per annum; which will absorb $160,000; and, of the Balance, the Directors propose carrying $75,000 to the Reserve Fund, and $55,901.44 to the Credit of new account.

If the foregoing appropriation of Profits be confirmed by the meeting, the amounts paid as Dividend for the whole year 1866 will represent $250,000, being equal to ten per cent. on the paid-up shares, and twelve per cent. on the new ones; (the latter participating in the dividend only from the 31st of July last,) the amounts carried to the Reserve Fund during the same period will aggregate $141,700, raising that account to $175,000 on 31st December, 1866, independent of the sum of $55,901.44 undivided profits carried forward on the above date as already mentioned; thus, making a total of $162,601.14 for the net profits of the year, after deducting charges, expenses, and allowances of every description, and without including the rebate on bills maturing after December 31st.

The Directors have no doubt that the result thus shewn of the Bank's working for the last twelve months will be considered extremely satisfactory by their co-proprietors; the more so, as the past year has been far from being one of general prosperity amongst mercantile and banking establishments.

The Directors feel that the difficulties and onerous responsibilities attendant upon the carrying on of an extensive business in such a manner as to ensure safety for the Bank's funds while realising a remunerative return from them for the shareholders, during a period of such almost unprecedented commercial disaster, require no comment. They are glad, however, to congratulate the proprietors upon the Bank having come unscathed through this trying period, which they can justly attribute to the efficient management of its officers.

The growing credit of the Corporation, the steadily increasing confidence and support of its numerous constituents, and the disappearance from China of no less than six Banks, warrant the Directors, they believe, in assuring the Proprietors of the immediate prospect of the Corporation being as promising for the future as the past has been undeniably confirmatory of the hopes and anticipations entertained by the Board when this local undertaking was first brought before the public.

INCORPORATION.

The Ordinance alluded to in the last half year's Report has been passed, and though not yet formally confirmed, has, the Directors believe, received the substantial approval of the Lords of the Treasury and of the Secretary of State for the Colonies in all important details.

NEW CAPITAL.

The present paid-up Capital being considered by the Directors sufficient for the requirements of the Bank, especially as it has been decided that the extension of the Corporation's business to India is to be postponed for an indefinite period, the Board do not anticipate that it will be necessary to make any call upon the 20,000 new shares during the current year.

REMUNERATION OF DIRECTORS.

According to the Resolution passed at the General Meeting of 16th August last, the sum of $25,000 (including the special amount voted to the late Deputy Chairman as per previous balance sheet) has been appropriated for the remuneration of the Court from the formation of the Bank up to the 30th June, 1866, comprising a period of eighteen months.

For the services of the Directors during the half-year ending the 31st December last, the sum of $7,500 is charged in the accounts submitted to the meeting.

ELECTION OF DIRECTORS.

In accordance with clause 60 of the Deed of Settlement the term of office of the Directors expires on this date.

Messrs. Edward Cunningham, Albert F. Heard, Geo. J. Helland, H. B. Lemann, Woldemar Nissen, Arthur Sassoon, Caleb T. Smith, and Thomas Sutherland offer themselves for re-election, and by the Deed of Settlement are eligible.

AUDITORS.

Messrs. W. H. Rennie and P. Ryrie, the auditors selected by the proprietors at the last half-yearly meeting have ably discharged their duties, and the Directors recommend them for re-election.

Police Intelligence, February 9th.

BEFORE THE HON. W. H. RENNIE.

In consequence of the formal resignation by J. C. Whyte Esq. of his magisterial duties, the Honorable W. H. Rennie, took his seat on the bench for the first time.

NO PASSES.

Thirteen men were arrested last night in different parts of the town, and in spite of various excuses were fined fifty cents each.

STEALING SHIP'S STORES.

Hussein, lamp-trimmer on board the P. & O. Co's steamer Aden, was charged with attempting to steal a quantity of new blocks from that vessel.

G. J. Hooker, fourth officer of the Aden, stated that the boatswain reported to him, that he had taken the blocks now produced from a sampan alongside.

Edward Driscoll, boatswain on board the Aden, said that while having a thorough overhaul of the stores yesterday, he was informed by a seacunny that prisoner had been seen lowering a bag over the side into a sampan, witness examined the boat and found a bag containing the blocks now in court, they were not in prisoners possession at the time but he was in a coal boat that was alongside.

John Manuel, seacunny on board the Aden, said that at about noon yesterday, he saw prisoner throw a bag over the bows into a sampan, he at once reported it to the gunner; prisoner jumped into a sampan alongside and was making off when arrested by the gunner.

Prisoner said that he threw the bag overboard but imagined it to contain nothing but rubbish; this however did not go down and he was sent to gaol for two months with hard labour.

UNLAWFUL POSSESSION.

Zadoo Abdool Raymond, private in the Ceylon Rifles, was charged with being in unlawful possession of a waistcoat, the property of a police constable.

P. C. 85, Sheik Abraham, stated that at seven o'clock yesterday morning, while sleeping in No. 4 station, prisoner entered and asked him to come over and have coffee with him, he refused to go and prisoner left the room, shortly afterwards he missed a waistcoat that was hanging at the foot of his bed; about four o'clock he went over to prisoner's quarters and saw him lying asleep with the waistcoat on, he shortly afterwards met him in the street and arrested him, still wearing the garment.

Prisoner said that prosecutor owed him some money and had left the waistcoat in pawn with him until the money should be paid, he offered to bring witnesses to prove the truth of his statement; the case was therefore adjourned for a time.

Samery Rhea, recognised the waistcoat now in court, he saw it in the prisoner's house about a week ago but does not know who it belongs to.

Prosecutor said this was quite false but had no witnesses to bring forward to support his statement. His Worship thought the charge a highly improbable one and dismissed the prisoner, adding that he should report the constables' conduct to the superintendent of police.

CAPTURE OF A NOTED SCOUNDREL.

Man-acheong, a very well known character, who has been flogged, branded and deported, continually in gaol for some time past, was charged with attempting to snatch a watch and chain from the person of Charles Doyle, cook on board H.M.S. Perseus.

Doyle stated that while going down Queen's Road at about half past seven last evening in a chair, he met some of his shipmates and told the chair coolies to stop a moment that he might speak to them, before the chair was fairly set down some one made a grab at his watch chain and broke it, witness tried to seize him but could not, he could not swear to prisoners' features as he was inside the chair, but he saw him arrested.

John Gillies was walking alongside Doyle in the chair and the latter stopped his conveyance and took out his watch to look at the time; prisoner who was passing made a grab at it and broke it away from the chain; Doyle attempted to seize him but only succeeded in giving him the slight scratch which he now shows, prisoner ran off but was caught by a Chinese constable who was near at the time, witness is sure of the man as he never lost sight of him and was quite close to him all the time.

P. C. 43. On duty in Queen's Road yesterday evening at about eight o'clock saw Doyle take his watch from his pocket to look at the time and immediately prisoner made a snatch at it but he can not say whether or not he was successful in getting it; witness at once arrested him but found no watch upon him at the time.

Prisoner denied the charge, he was quietly walking along the street when he was arrested because he has been in gaol before.

As he was known to be such a notorious scoundrel he was sentenced to three month's imprisonment, one to be in solitary confinement, and two floggings of twelve strokes each.

ANOTHER OLD OFFENDER.

Wong-ng-ong, another character of the same breed as the last, was charged with attempting to steal one pair of trousers and three pieces of cloth, the property of Quock-amoey, servant in the Oun son-lan brothel in Caines Road.

Prosecutrix who appeared very unwilling to give her evidence, stated that yesterday evening at about seven o'clock, being in her house, she heard a cry of thief and on going out saw that a bamboo on which she had hung some clothes had fallen down and prisoner was running away.

Sergeant 206, Fostula Khan, on duty in Caines Road last evening, saw prisoner snatch at some clothing that was hanging up on a bamboo, and pull them down, a woman called out "thief" and witness stopped the prisoner who was running away.

Prisoner denied the charge and said he was walking along the street when he accidentally ran against the bamboo and it fell on him, he became angry and demanded restitution for his injuries which modest demand was however not complied with by the owner of the property, so a slight quarrel ensued and he was arrested.

His Worship thought this a highly improbable tale and as prisoners' antecedents were of such a remarkably bad character sent him to gaol for three months with hard labour.

SUMMONS.

Two Indians, one a coachman and the other a groom, employed by Messrs Jardine, Matheson & Co. were summoned for assaulting Chun-aleong a horse coolie employed in the same stables.

Plaintiff stated that yesterday morning at about ten o'clock he was cooking rice in the kitchen when the defendants entered and took away his ashes; he remonstrated with them upon which they both struck him a severe blow on the head with piece of firewood, inflicting the wounds which he now shows.

The first defendant said that plaintiff made use of abusive language to him, and with the assistance of his brother dragged him into the kitchen and beat him, he does not know how complainant received the wounds on his head. The second saw the first struggling with the plaintiff and went to his assistance.

His Worship said that it was evident from the state of the complainant's head that an assault had been committed on him, while the defendants showed no marks of violence about them, as it appeared that the first was the man who committed the assault he should fine him $5 and discharge the second with a caution not to interfere with other people's quarrels.

LARCENY BY A FEMALE.

Chun-amory, a widow, was charged with stealing three jackets, one pair of trousers, one umbrella and one brass pipe, the property of Leong-ayee, a married woman, living in East Street, Taipingshan.

Prosecutrix stated that prisoner was a friend of hers and formerly resided with her; on the 26th of December last she went out in the morning and on returning in the afternoon found the prisoner absent and the articles above named were missing; prisoner never returned to this house, and prosecutrix did not see her again until yesterday when she noticed her standing at the door of a house near the Sing-ping theatre, and gave her in charge; prisoner sent a servant afterwards who brought up the jacket now produced in court which prosecutrix identifies as her property.

Inspector Langdon, said that the jacket had just been brought to court by the prosecutrix it was not shown to him in the charge room.

P. C. 81 who arrested prisoner, also saw or heard nothing of the garment in question.

Prisoner made a statement to the effect that she formerly borrowed a jacket from the prosecutrix which she lost and is willing to replace it by the one now in court; she knows nothing of any other clothes, she has seen the woman several times since she left her house and always offered to replace the garment she had borrowed.

There were no witnesses on either side and nothing to support the statement of either, the case was therefore dismissed.

The Agra and Masterman's Bank.

In the papers by the present mail, we have the details of an application, before Vice-Chancellor Sir W. P. Wood, for the sanction of the Court to a proposed arrangement for the resuscitation of the bank. Sir Roundell Palmer stated the case on behalf of the applicants, General Sir George Pollock and others, who had been appointed at a general meeting of shareholders to submit the proposal for the above purpose to the consideration of the Court.

Sir R. Palmer said that the importance of the matter he had to submit to the Court could hardly be exaggerated. The temporary failure of the Agra and Masterman's Bank had been brought about by the irresistible influences of a money panic, and the machinations of unprincipled persons, and the suspension had in truth taken place when the bank was in a state of perfect solvency. The shareholders subsequently arranged to have a voluntary winding-up of the concern, but they did so with the view of bringing about a revival of the business, in which so large a portion of the Indian and English communities were deeply concerned. An investigation into the affairs of the bank showed that its assets exceeded its liabilities by the sum of £1,150,000. In order to accomplish the resuscitation, it was now proposed that new capital to the amount of one million should be subscribed, and that the new company should guarantee the discharge of the liabilities of the old company. Nearly all the 5,700 creditors of the bank in the United Kingdom, with the exception of fifteen, assented, and so far as information could be obtained of the opinions of the Indian creditors, it appeared that their assent was given to the proposal. Whilst the debts of the assenting creditors in the United Kingdom amounted to the sum of $2,208,993, the debts of the fifteen non-assenting creditors did not exceed £80,000. No shareholder had expressed his dissent. But he could not state what opinion was entertained by the official liquidator with reference to the scheme.

Mr. Roxburgh, who appeared for the official liquidator here stated that he did not oppose but only desired that his honour should become acquainted with all the facts.

Sir R. Palmer observed that this statement relieved him of much anxiety, and proceeded to read a quantity of evidence, which had been adduced to show the desirableness of the project, and the support that had been given to it in the United Kingdom and India. The official liquidator, Mr. Cannan, stated in an affidavit, that the assets of the bank sufficed for the payment in 1867, or early in 1868, of all the liabilities without any call being made. It was, therefore, clearly to be inferred that there was no risk in the revival of the bank.

Mr. Druce, Q. C., and Mr. A. G. Marten, for Mr. Shipman, the creditors representative, stated his desire to facilitate the arrangement, subject to the following observations and suggestions.—(a) The order confirming the agreement should provide that the arrangement shall not prejudice or affect the rights of the creditors, as against any sureties or person not bound by the order; (b) the order also should provide that as between the purchasers and the creditors the purchasers should be principal debtors in respect of the instalments, and accordingly, shall not be discharged by their being given to the vendors, or by any other act which if the purchasers were sureties only would discharge them; (c) the cash and notes for the instalments ought to be handed over to the liquidator or creditors' representative before possession was given of any of the vendors property, with provision by covenant, before completion of the sale, in cases of disputed claims, or claims not capable of being expressed as an immediate debt; (d) the purchasing company should enter into a covenant with the liquidator or creditors' representative, and with all the creditors (as in the case of a common deed for securing payment of a composition under the Bankruptcy Act 1861,) for the due performance of the terms of the agreement. Subject to the insertion of these provisions for the protection of the general body of creditors, they did not oppose the arrangement.

Mr. Giffard, Q.C., and Mr. Bedwell, for the Chartered Bank of India, Australia, and China, creditors for £111,000, opposed the application, and vindicated their right to do so without having the odium cast upon them of selfishly opposing that which had been assented to by the large majority of creditors. They did not seek to enforce any extreme rights, or to claim their pound of flesh; but what they wished, and what appeared to be wholly wanting, was some proposal that at present would inspire confidence, and satisfy the managers of the Chartered Bank, as reasonable men of business, that the proposal was to the advantage of their shareholders, whose interests they were bound to protect. In the first place, the dividends were not to be paid in such a beneficial manner as was intended by the official liquidator. The capital proposed was insufficient, and if, as was admitted, the official liquidator would have difficulty in realising the assets, how were the promissory notes of the new company to be paid? Then again, the position of the parties would render it necessary for the new bank to deal more tenderly with debtors, so as not to lose their custom, than the interests of the creditors required. Upon the whole, the plan was premature, had not been sufficiently investigated, and was not such as to inspire confidence or claim adoption by the Court, especially as it was open to grave objections under the Companies Act, 1862.—

His Honour, after an elaborate consideration of the position of the company, both with regard to the interest of the creditors and shareholders, said that his judgment must necessarily be greatly influenced by the entire absence of hostility on the part of the shareholders of the company to the scheme, and the consent of all but fifteen of the creditors. No reflection could be made on the character and honesty of those who had conducted the affairs of the bank which had so unfortunately failed, nor could the motives of those who opposed the scheme be impeached, because it was important that all the facts of the case should be inquired into. The comparatively narrow doctrines of the Court with regard to the conduct of trustees ought not to be applied to a case of this kind. The shareholders were better judges of their own interests than he could be, and as they had without dissension concurred, he thought that he should be favouring the interests of all parties by approving of the scheme.

THE COTTON TRADE.—An enormous quantity of raw cotton has been imported this year, and this increase continues to be maintained month by month. The value of this article sent from the United States alone up to the end of September is computed to be between 30 and 40 millions sterling. That sent from British India is valued at 19 millions, from Egypt at nearly seven millions, and from Brazil at more than four millions sterling. A great comparative decrease has taken place as regards that sent from China, Mexico, and Bermudas, but the total value of our cotton imports for the three quarters of this year is nearly 63 millions, or about 90 per cent. more than was brought into this country during the corresponding months of last year.—Times.

COMMERCIAL INTELLIGENCE.

Hongkong, Saturday Evening.

The dullness that has pervaded commercial circles throughout the entire week seems to have been quite broken through to-day, and the markets have been comparatively active. In most departments there has been a fair, and apparently —rigidly consumptive demand, for staple articles, but with no marked fluctuation in prices, purchases being mostly for the recuperation of exhausted stocks at the ruling market rates. The demand for Opium continues brisk especially among the natives and comparatively large transactions are reported, quotations however remain unaltered. The market for Malwa opened this morning at $740 but soon advanced and sales are reported as high as $790 for good drug. The closing rates are $600 for old and $615 for new Patna, $580 for old Benares, and $785 for Malwa, with a buoyant market and upward tendency. The Cotton market has opened with a fair demand, and if anything prices show a shade of improvement. Sales reported embrace 650 bales Bengal at $21 to $22, and 270 bales Shanghai at $31 to $31.40. Cotton Yarn has been in fair request but purchasers do not appear to seek the more desirable qualities, only one sale of "Eagle chop is noted for week at $180. Transactions reported embrace 450 bales 16/24 at $175 to $185, and 75 bales 28/32 at $210. Some considerable sales of Piece Goods have been made but prices show no improvement whatever, the best chop of 8/4 Grey Shirtings not being quotable above $3.55 and even this is difficult to obtain. Sales including some not previously reported, embrace 7500 pieces 8/4 Grey Shirtings at $3.50 to $3.55, 3500 pieces 7-lb at $3.20 to $3.25, 1,600 7-lbs T-Cloths at $2.80, 210 Lastings at $17.75, 600 pieces Assorted Spanish Stripes at 89 cents, 220 pieces Scarlet at 95 cents, 100 pieces Dutch Camlets at $29.25 and 1080 dozen Red handkerchiefs at $1.20. There is no noticeable feature in the movement of Produce which is a yet quite limited except some inquiry for Rice. The only sales reported are 19000 piculs Saigon Rice at $2.05 to $2.10 and 1000 piculs Green Peas at $2.35. Bank shares have improved and are to-day inquired for at 3 per cent discount for the old and 2 for the new. As will be seen by the report of the Court of Directors which is to presented this morning at the meeting of the shareholders and which is published at length in another column, the affairs of this institution are in a most prosperous condition. A very handsome surplus is to be divided and there is every reason belive that the Bank is now established upon so firm a foundation that soon it will have absorb a larger portion of the business of the colony. Under wise and judicious management there is every opportunity for this bank to insure itself to the public as a most safe and profitable investment for capital as also a safe and sure institution with which to do business—one that should therefore always have the entire confidence and ready support of the commercial community in China.

The report of the Hongkong, Canton and Macao S. Co. which has already appeared in these columns must be most gratifying to the shareholders, so far as the results of the past year. The most sanguine friends of the enterprise hardly expected more than that the company would during the period embraced in the report establish itself, get in thorough working order, and be ready to begin the current year with a fair and even start, but all this has been accomplished, the machinery, and property of the company has been overhauled and put in perfect repair, valuable additions have been made and a portion of the time the line was operated under disadvantageous circumstances, and yet the shareholders have the satisfaction of finding at the end of the year a balance of over $9.20 to their credit. Instead of dividing this they have wisely passed it to the new account as undivided profit and consequently begin the current fiscal year with a institution known from experience to be in the best of running order and a guarantee of most remunerative profit. The public also feel an amount of satisfaction that an enterprise in which they are interested and on which they are more or less dependant is in such an entirely satisfactory and desirable condition and such competent and worthy management.

Extracts.

Young England.

(From the Spectator.)

Dr. Miller, the Vicar of Greenwich, once the most popular man in Birmingham, and one of the best specimens of the "Evangelical" clergy, has given expression this week to a complaint very commonly heard in middle-aged society. He told the Young Men's Christian Association of Manchester, on Monday, that boys were getting too bumptious altogether, or, as he more suavely put it, that the "standard of parental authority had been lowered," that young people were "forward," and "fast," that they smoked short pipes in the streets, that they settled religious questions, or rather ecclesiastical questions, off-hand, "questions which even Bishops were unable to settle," —a remark which we admiringly perceive did not move the sedate young men of Manchester to any unseemly laughter,—and, as a climax of evils, were addicted to "the intolerable habit of slang." He denounced all these things, in the intolerable phraseology of which even sensible clergymen cannot get rid, as "snares," that is we presume, in English, as habits pleasant to those who fall into them, but injurious to the good order of society and their own welfare; and his remarks, whether acceptable or not to the youngsters before him, seemed, we doubt not, very edifying indeed to their fathers. Middle-aged men, particularly in the better middle class, are always making the same complaint, and it must have been quite pleasant to them to hear a beneficed Doctor of Divinity saying that they grumbled in accordance with Scripture, that forwardness was a snare, and a short pipe something to be put down "by a mild Act of Parliament." We also think that these were very right things to say, if Dr. Miller thought them, and only hope he will say them again in the pulpit of his own cure. It is a good thing to see any clergyman fighting what he thinks the living sins of the day, instead of the dead sins, talking English instead of pulpit, scolding bumptiousness instead of chattering about Laodiceans, condemning short pipes instead of denouncing luxury, and telling boys and girls to be quiet about rubrics and prevenient grace, instead of vaguely asking them to show themselves chosen vessels. But though Dr. Miller is quite right in saying plainly what he thinks at any risk to dignity—which plainness never endangers—it is not therefore certain that he thinks rightly. Is it really true that the tendency of the day is to lower the standard of parental authority, that a change is going on which will deprive youth of all its reverence for age and experience?

We very much doubt if matters in this respect are any worse than they were, whether they are not very greatly improved. Manners no doubt have changed considerably within this generation, more considerably perhaps among boys and girls than among their seniors. Everything has been relaxed, from etiquette to straps, and of course the young have felt most fully and show most markedly the benefit or the evil of relaxation. Fifty years ago boys of sixteen scarcely ventured to sit and never ventured to loll, in their fathers' presence, always said "Sir" in addressing him, and were required, or supposed to be required, to obey orders without asking for explanation. To ask "why" was an impertinence, to discuss one's own education a blasphemy against pastors and masters forbidden in the Catechism, to joke in the drawing-room or at table very disrespectful. Now boys no doubt call their father the "governor," would as soon say "Sir" to him as to a cabman, pass criticisms of quite shocking and very amusing irreverence upon all manner of tutors, want reasons for obeying disagreeable orders, and are rather more at home in their own houses than the gentleman who pays the rent. Girls are a little more strictly trained even now, but still the old formal obedience has vanished from them also. They question and object and loll about, suggest what they would like to learn and leave unlearned, give their mothers advice, and generally behave as if they were out of drill. We heard only last week of a girl who flatly refused to learn the piano because "she had no ear," and it was a waste of time; and of another who said that the backboard was "an old-world delusion, which only made people crooked." The first one must have had sceptical tendencies, being clearly of utilitarian opinions, and the second it is obvious had not imbibed the due amount of respect for the wisdom of our ancestors. Either, we dare say, would have given an opinion on chasubles undaunted by Dr. Miller, and have stuck to it too, after he had told her that Bishops had failed to solve the knotty point, and "what could a girl know." We are afraid, too, that boys do sometimes smoke a little too soon, and girls read novels before they know what life is, that the dislike of solemn pretentiousness has made slang popular as a vehicle of expression, and that restraints are in fact very much broken through; but merely to prove all this is not, as Dr. Miller seems to believe, to prove an evil. Filial obedience, no doubt, is a good thing, though be it observed that it exists most perfectly among the most immoral nations. The Roman, who went to see the Floralia, had power of life and death over his son; the Hindoo, whose creed is embodied crime, obeys his father after he himself is old; and the Chinaman, who is of all men most sensual, reverences his parents as representatives of God on earth. Still, filial obedience is a convenient household arrangement, and filial reverence a sacred thing; but, so far from the relaxation of manners diminishing either, it increases them by making them intelligent. The old habit of formal address was neither bad nor good, any more than the old costume; but the custom of refusing a reason for orders given to the young was very decidedly bad. It either irritated the temper or silenced the reason. All opposition being forbidden, those who opposed were prepared to go all lengths. If a lad wanted to go to sea, he said nothing about it till he had summoned up courage to run away, whereas he would now state his wish, press his wish, and in nine cases out of ten be chaffed by his father out of his wish. The old sullen dislike and dread of parents, which was so often the consequence of repression, has vanished—so vanished as to produce a curious change even in fiction. Fifty years ago a lad's confidant in a novel was always a servant, or another lad, or some acquaintance, a girl's always her waiting-maid. We now condemn that as unnatural, make the lad and girl equally resort to the fireside, talk out their love affairs to their mothers, and get their fathers to pull them out of scrapes. The old deceptiveness has disappeared with the old fear, and boys, even those who will lie to the schoolmaster, think it unmanly to "do the governor." He who does it now is bad, whereas fifty years ago he was only sharp and sprightly. No doubt, on the other hand, the freedom of communication tempts boys and girls to judge fathers and mothers critically, as third persons in fact; but that is a concession to the interests of truth, and is only dreadful to imbecile fathers and mothers. We cannot keep up a system of morals the only use of which is to enable those who cannot govern by reason to go on governing arbitrarily. As a rule, any man's reason for doing anything is so much better than his boy's reason for not doing it, that if he only gives it he will be obeyed at once, and much better obeyed than if he gave a simple order. As a simple matter of fact parents, we believe, are better obeyed than ever they were, more readily, more intelligently, and with much less pressure to secure the obedience. Even in this matter of smoking, we believe the father who quietly tells his son not to use tobacco till he is twenty, because it has such and such results on the health will meet infinitely less opposition than forty years ago he would have done. Then the son would have stood silent and smoked in the stable, now he will exclaim, and argue, and cross-question, and yield. Of course there are men who would prefer a more military household discipline, and a few who deliberately try to enforce it; but they are opposed to the whole spirit of the age, which has ceased to consider mechanical obedience a reasonable demand or a beneficial service, and they only succeed in making their sons think themselves differently treated to everybody else, the worst feeling, perhaps, which can grow up in a household. Dr. Miller would, perhaps, affirm that mechanical obedience was required by religion, but the fifth commandment says "honour" only, else a man might obey all his life, and each new generation merge its life in the life of the last; and Christ set aside the household remonstrance which would have impeded his work.
